

Injection of X-ray Dye (Contrast) in CT Patient Information

Your CT is an important investigation in the overall management of your health. It may involve the injection of x-ray dye (contrast) to help highlight the important structures we are examining. Some patients have certain conditions which may change the way the scan is done, therefore please answer the questions below (please circle):

■ Are you pregnant or breast feeding? Yes No

■ Are you allergic to any medications?
If so please state..... Yes No

■ Have you had a previous injection
of x-ray dye?..... Yes No
(For example during a previous CT/heart angiogram).
Were there were any problems?
If so please state..... Yes No

.....
■ Are you DIABETIC?..... Yes No
• Do you take medication for diabetes? Yes No
If so, please state

.....
• Do you take METFORMIN?..... Yes No

• HAVE YOU EVER been diagnosed with any of the following conditions?

Asthma Yes No

Hyperthyroidism/Graves' Disease..... Yes No

Thyroid cancer Yes No

Phaeochromocytoma..... Yes No

Myasthenia Gravis Yes No

Sickle cell disease Yes No

Kidney disease Yes No

Are you Hepatitis B or C positive? Yes No

Is there a chance you may be pregnant? Yes No

“Respect, communication, involvement”

The staff of Diagnostic Imaging want to make sure that you have understood the information that we have provided personally, as well as the information contained in the information sheet. We believe your understanding about why and how we are planning to assist you is very important.